The Family History of
William MORRIS and Rosalie BEAMISH

Rosalie BEAMISH was born about 1865 Australia. Her parents were Rosana formerly LOIDOFF and John BEAMISH.

Rosalie BEAMISH was age 11 years when she settled in East Oxford New Zealand around 1876. This was according to her 1884 intention to marry application, which stated that she had dwelled in East Oxford for 8 years and that 'there was no person in the colony having authority to give consent to the minor to marry'. Rosalie could have left Australia and arrived in New Zealand with a distant relative after her parents died in Australia or perhaps her mother was widowed and came to NZ under another surname name.

Memories from Great Grandson Ray Ivory

His name was Bill MORRIS but he was called Schubert. He was married twice. His first wife was called Grandma MORRIS and his second wife was called Granny MORRIS. I remember him as a old man, sitting on a chair near his gate, his hat over his eyes, always chewing nuts or lollies, enjoying the sun. He mostly had his eyes closed against the light. I would ride past on my bike and call out, "Good morning Great granddad!"

And he would reply, "G'day! Who are you?" He wouldn't even open his eyes to see who I was. The story told about him was that he quit work when he was 50. He either had a row or someone had teased him over the number of children he had (12) - I don't know, but he downed tools one day and declared that he would never work again; and he lived till he was 91. (It has been suggested that he was injured in an accident, felling trees.) He never did another tap of work in his life. Old Granny would cut the wood and do all the jobs. What's more, she used to go out and work, while he stayed home and smoked his pipe all day. It was said of him that he was so lazy that he wouldn't have got out of bed if the house caught fire. But the best story about him was this: Great-grandmother Rose was due to have a baby, and she woke up in the middle of the night with things starting to happen. "Bill," she called out, "Can you go and get the doctor?" "Aw, Rose," he said, "can't you put it off until the morning?" This is true.

Another story about Great-granddad Schubert. When he was younger he was some sort of assistance to the local sheriff. It was his job one day to escort a prisoner from Oxford to Christchurch. They set off for Christchurch in a horse and cart. It was a scorching nor'-west day, which made for thirsty work. At Woodend, old Schubert felt the pressing need for a cold beer. He pulled up at the Woodend pub, tied the horse to a rail and went in for a drink, leaving the prisoner outside. When he came out, the horse and the cart and the prisoner had all disappeared. He never really lived that one down.

MORRIS WILLIAM
 Settler, East Oxford. Mr Morris was born in Warrington, England, in 1848, and came to Lyttleton by the ship "British Crown" in 1863. After a short period in Christchurch he went to Oxford, where he has since been engaged in bush work. He was for sixteen years a member of the Loyal Oxford Lodge of Oddfellows. Mr Morris was married in 1876, to a daughter of the late Mr Richard Johnson, of West Oxford. His wife died in June 1883, leaving three sons and two daughters. In May 1884 Mr Morris contacted a second marriage with a daughter of the late Mr John Bamish, of Australia, and five sons and two daughters have been born of this union.
