Early Educational History - About the year 1863 public meetings were held and a sum of £80 per annum was guaranteed towards a teacher's salary. Advertisements in the Wellington paper failed to elicit an application but Father Seon interested himself in the welfare of the settlers and taking advantage of the rush which had set in in Otago communicated with Father Moran of Dunedin and by his aid a Mr and Mrs D Carrick accepted the appointment both husband and wife being certified teachers from the Old Country. By permission of the Catholic Bishop Viard, Father Seon lent the settlers the use of the new Roman Catholic Church at Upper Hutt for school purpose the front portion of the existing church being that utilised. These teachers took up residence in a cottage opposite to the present dwelling of Mrs A Martin, senior. The school was conducted for 18 months in the church building. Mr R Barton, father of the local Barton families, offered a school site at the Trentham end of the settlement, an effort to establish the school at the upper end of the township having failed to elicit more than an offer of a small section from the late Mr J Cruickshank near the present

Upper Hutt railway station. Subscriptions were invited for the new school building, and the Provincial Government, having voted some £40 or £50 towards the work, a contract was let for the erection of a school room with two living-rooms attached on the site donated by Mr Barton. The contract price was £140. Mr Carrick continued the work for a further two years, when he one day suddenly dropped dead in the school room. His widow continued teaching for 2 years, leaving to take up the head-mistress-ship of the Catholic school at Blenheim. Children attended the Upper Hutt School from Mungaroa, Wallaceville, and Whiteman's Valley for years, having to travel as much as ten and twelve miles, including the homeward trip. A Mr Thompson from Australia succeeded Mrs Carrick, and the present education system having been inaugurated, a grant was made which resulted in the existing teacher's residence being erected.

70th Anniversary Upper Hutt School Jubilee Celebrations Some- Early History - In 1866 Mr Sullivan was succeeded by Mr Daniel Carrick and his wife Mrs Mary Ann Carrick. At a later date in that year a new school building was erected upon land at Trentham donated by Mrs Hannah Barton and Mr John Wilkins and the teachers and the pupils transferred to the public school under the control of the Education Department of the Wellington Provincial Government. Mr Carrick taught the boys and Mrs Carrick the girls. The inspector's report for the year 1866-67 recorded that there were 85 houses in the district and 99 children. Fees of 6d per child per week were payable to the teacher at the Upper Hutt and at the Trentham schools. In 1868 Mr Carrick when crossing the school ground fell down in an apoplectic fit and was removed to the schoolroom where he died in a short time. Mrs Carrick continued to teach the girls until shortly before she left to take charge of a school in Blenheim in 1874. From the time of Mr Carrick's death the Rev. Daniel Des Bois (Anglican vicar 1868-71) took charge of the boys and on his transfer to another parish Mr Cameron a single man succeeded him. The teachers were as follows: 1864-66 Mr T Sullivan, 1866-68 Mr Daniel Carrick, 1866-74 Mrs Mary A Carrick (assistant), 1868-71 Rev.
