

Deserters of the New Zealand Wars

Introduction, Contents and Index
(Weblink WAR Deserters Introduction)

On the 14th September 2000 the New Zealand Government passed Act 2000 "Pardon for soldiers of the Great War". The Act resulted in a pardon been given to the five New Zealand soldiers who were shot for desertion in World War One. The soldiers were [1] 24/1521 Jack (John) Braithwaite, [2] 24/2008 Frank Hughes, [3] 6/1598 John King, [4] 8/2733 Victor Manson Spencer and [5] 8/1384 John Joseph Sweeney.

There were soldiers who deserted during the New Zealand Wars but none of these were shot. I located information about the desertion of one soldier Peter Jamieson BELL. The information about his desertion was questionable and I soon became interested in locating the names of other deserters to see if there was some common denominator.

Could the reason for some of the desertions be the length of time the soldiers had to wait for their discharge papers, or the length of time they waited for their land to be granted? For some their pay had ceased and for financial reasons they may have decided not to wait any longer. Some were issued with rations and promised supplies of timber to build a cottage on their land but they were still waiting for their land to be issued. Perhaps some of the soldiers had enough of waiting around and just wanted to return home and start a new life for themselves.

If it could be proven that some of the soldiers who served in the New Zealand Wars did not genuinely desert, then would the New Zealand Government consider passing further legislation and grant a pardon to some of these soldiers.

We know that time has passed and the land can no longer be granted and the NZ War Medals are no longer available to descendants of these soldiers. If the soldiers did not deserve to be gazetted as deserters then history should be corrected and perhaps we should approach the New Zealand Government to pass another Act and grant a pardon to these soldiers from the New Zealand Wars.

On starting my research Richard Stowers gave me the names of 28 deserters and later many more. As my research increased so did the number of names listed as deserters of the New Zealand Wars. As I have time I will add information to the website but if I do not complete the research I am sure by placing this on my website someone can use the information and complete the history of the deserters.
