Wellington Independent newspaper 21 October & 01 November 1859

Fire at Mungaroa Hill - On Thursday the 13th instant the house of Mr Leach an industrious settler at Mungaroa Hill, was totally destroyed by fire. It was a slab house with thatched roof the latter igniting through some defect in the chimney. The fire occurring at mid-day Mrs Leach and her son being close at hand, some bedding and a few articles of clothing were saved the loss will be a severe one to Mr Leach who has proved himself a most useful settler. It is worthy of remark that several bank notes were destroyed which in consequence of no memorandum having been made of the numbers cannot be refunded. Persons in the Country would do well to bear in mind that where the number of notes can be sworn to there is little difficulty in obtaining the amount under guarantee.

#Supreme Court - Civil Sittings – Monday 08 October (Before his Honor Mr Justice Richmond and a common jury) - LEACH v JOHNSTON - This was an action brought by Mrs Leach an old settler in Polhill Gully against Dr Alexander Johnston for trespass on certain lands in Polhill Gully. Mr Barton appeared for the plaintiff and Mr Gordon Allan for the defendant. Mr

Barton opened the case for the plaintiff and from his statement it appeared that the plaintiff had been a resident of Polhill Gully for thirty years and during nearly the whole of that time the land had been in the occupation of her husband and herself. In January 1862, a lease for twenty-one years was given to Mr. John Leach (plaintiff's husband) over the land. Mr Leach died in the following year and left all his property to his widow. The lease was signed by three native chiefs for whom for several years Mr Ed Baker received the rents. Up to 1874 the plaintiffs right to occupy was not disputed. However about this period Dr Johnston leased certain lands from the natives including the land in the possession of Mrs Leach. This last lease was signed by seventeen natives each claiming according to the evidence of Major Heaphy a commissioner under the Native Land Frauds Prevention Act, an equal interest in the land. The signatures in the lease to Dr Johnston included the names of those who originally signed the lease to Mr Leach. That lease was given subject to the rights of the first lessee. Mr Barton contended that such a provision in the second lease was sufficient evidence to maintain Mrs Leach's title. His Honor was of opinion that that point was not very clear and he would not for the present hold the second lease to be confirmatory of the first that the provision might only mean that Mrs Leach was not to be disturbed in possession of that portion of the land which the three original lessors were entitled to. Whether the three lessors had a right to lease the whole of the land in dispute was a question for the Native Lands Court. Evidence was taken from which it appeared that the defendant had fenced off some twenty-two acres of the land and let it to Mr Somerville at a rental of £20 a year. Mrs Leach still possession of the land and depastured cattle thereon. Mr Somerville brought an action for trespass against her in the Resident Magistrate's Court but the magistrate dismissed the case on the ground that as a question of title was involved he had no jurisdiction. After the lease had been issued to the defendant the plaintiff paid the rent to the Native Lands Commissioner and it was afterwards handed over to the defendant. Several witnesses were called to prove the plaintiff's occupation. Mr Leach was examined, and on a question being put as to the amount of damage he sustained by the trespass of the defendant his Honor ruled that it could only have reference to the day of entry and could not embrace all the injury sustained by being kept out of possession for any lengthened period. The case was one of trespass and to prove continued damage it would be necessary to bring a case of ejectment. Mr Barton said he was unprepared for this objection but he believed he could find authorities to prove the contrary. His Honor then adjourned the Court till the following morning at 10 o'clock reference Papers past website New Zealand Times newspaper 10 October 1877
